Together for Change

Annual Report 2024 -2025

And we began to make change that matters.....

You don't just give feedback here, you see it being used and turned into something real."

Ideas like Bite Size SEND Training and the Local offer flyers were shaped from day one with real experience, not just reviewed at the end.

Services (WSCC, NHS and education) are now working together earlier, using the panel to join up decisions and improve support.

Professionals are now reducing jargon, listening differently, and designing with parent carers not just for them.

Parent feedback helped make information clearer, more welcoming, and easier for families to understand.

"This is the first time I've felt truly heard and now the service has changed because of our feedback."
